Making the everyday possible

Thank you for supporting The Hospital Research Foundation Home Lottery.

Thanks to you, life-changing medical research and patient care initiatives can focus on not only treating disease, but on what comes after – getting back to the everyday moments that matter.

Researchers like Associate Professor Hannah Wardill, a leader in cancer survivorship at Adelaide University and SAHMRI, are working to improve life beyond treatment.

From managing long-term side effects to improving survivors' quality of life and independence, this research is changing what "life after cancer" looks like.

Your support also helps progress vital research and services in more than 60 areas of disease and illness, including cancer, dementia, stroke, heart disease, mental health and more.

When you purchase a Home Lottery ticket, you fight for the everyday – those moments that people living with disease cherish the most.

Your ticket turns research into hope.

Thank you for your support.
